ARCHIE MILLER Q AND A

Opening Statement: Good to see everybody in this unique way to start the season. We are excited, a lot like probably everybody, to get the official start, like everybody else in college basketball going. We have been anxious, like a lot of people, to get back together and have real purpose in front of us, for the most part. We are still working through a lot of uncertainty in terms of scheduling events and there are a lot of unanswered questions. But the fact that our guys are going to be together, we are getting ready to take on this climb, to me, that is what this is all about. I know that our players are excited to get back to the everyday business with each other. They have been at their best when they are with each other. Being able to handle this with this group this year is going to be something that we remember for a long time due to the circumstances that we are all under. Without further ado, I guess we will open it up. If there is anything that I can help with, I will do it.

Q. On importance of an experienced team in a unique season...

MILLER: I think there are a lot of different types of teams out there. There are teams with a lot of newcomers, teams with a lot of veterans, but how you handle what is thrown at you really comes down to your leadership. I think we have some guys here that have been a part of a lot of big games, been a part of a lot of college basketball experiences and know what that feels like. To have that at your disposal, as a coach, you hope that plays a role in a positive way. With that being said, every team is different. At the end of the day, winning and losing, playing minutes, making shots and missing shots all plays a role in how you evolve. By any indication of how the season ended a year ago, how our guys have handled themselves when they were away, how we have handled ourselves since we first got started back and as the school year has unraveled in front of us, week by week, how we have handled our business gives me a pretty good indication that our team is about the right things. We do have good leadership. Our young players are here for the right reasons. Improvement has been on the forefront of everyone's mind at all stages of time, from the end of the year until right now. Now we have to put that together. We have to be always about the team approach, defining roles and getting all of that stuff sorted out to be at our best early. We are unsure right now that the schedule we put forth in April was built for a very specific reason and built around certain games that you know you have. It is constantly changing. It is changing still to this minute. What we have to do is be ready on Nov. 25th to jump the ball. I think that is the most important thing. Take away the things you cannot control, eliminate the things that distract you from the thing that is most important, which is, at the end of the day, how much better are we going to be now than we were a year ago when we finished as individuals and as a group? How much different can we be between now and the 25th when we jump ball? There is a lot of challenges that go into that with the lack of preseason, the lack of non-conference and lack of exhibition-type opportunities. It is a little bit unique. It is going to get revved up from day one. We are going to have to mow through it with a lot of different types of speed bumps that are along the way that are coming that we do not see and probably anticipate happening. At the end of the day, we have to be on a quest to be ready for the first day. When that happens, we have to take inventory day-by-day and keep building and be ready to move to the next one, whether that is the Maui event being moved to Asheville, coming out of that and heading on the road to an

ACC Challenge game or with very few home opportunities available in general. We do not know, quite frankly, how it is set in stone, but we do know that on the 25th we do have to be the most-ready team. I think that is the quest. As we talk to our guys through the entire preseason, the rest of October heading into November, that is what it is about. It is about preparing, being ready and stay hungry for that one opportunity so when they say 'go' you can go and we are ready to go. That has been the focus from day one. We have really hung our hat on the everyday approach. The players have done a good job of hanging in there with it. I like where we are at as we get ready to start tomorrow.

Q. On Jerome Hunter...

MILLER: Let me say this about Jerome, he had a well-documented season-ending injury as a freshman. In a unique way, that injury, that setback that he had was different in a lot of ways. As much of it was an injury, it was trial and error of what he could and could not do. As we went into last year, we had our fingers crossed and we were really hoping Jerome would get that opportunity on the floor. Once he established that he was going to be available every day, working hard at it every day, then it became a reality of this guy is a true freshman. Not only was he a true freshman on the floor in terms of experience, but he had been out a significant amount of time from the game. As an athlete, he was out from competing and doing things. He had a tough recovery. With the team that we had a year ago, you fended for yourself a little bit, tried to work your way in there and tried to take advantage of your opportunities when you got the opportunity to get in. He did that. I thought right around January we were at a crossroads in trying to figure out what we could get out of Jerome. I think that the Ohio State game at home was an opportunity for him to grab ahold of more minutes. Once he did that, he showed that he was not afraid, he was tough and that if he could stay with it over the course of the next so many months, he could help our team. I think that is what you saw. You saw a young guy, in a very difficult league, grow up and try to get better. Towards the end of the year he shot the ball much more consistently, defensively, he was a work-in-progress all year, but his intentions and effort were always good. He made big plays for us at times when we needed them. From a confidence perspective, he finished the year on a high. It was almost a sense of relief, like 'oh, wow, I did it. I got through it.' Now it is 'I am ready to take a bigger bite out of the apple.' I think that is where he is at. We talked a lot about his ballhandling, talked a lot about his physical conditioning and his ability to rehabilitate his body in the time off that he had. He has to be bigger and stronger. We talked very early in the spring about being able to handle a more of a load, learning more in terms of being able to play inside and out. He embraced that, and since he has been back, he is back to being the old Jerome. He loves the game; he has a smile on his face. When he messes up, he looks at you and says 'yes sir, coach' and he moves on. I think that is what we love about him is that he loves the game. He is a good team guy. He is the type of guy that, as a coach, you love being around in the heat of the moment because he is giving great effort. Right now, he is really heading in a good direction. Like all of our players, we are waiting for that next speed bump. In the back of our minds, we are always thinking about how Jerome's health is paramount. He is going to play a big role on this team. He has to play a big role. He has to grow up as a second-year player and has to be much more of a consistent shooter and a more consistent defender for us. Without question, I think he will be able to give us the versatility to play small or big and be better at it than he was a year ago. I think he has the confidence, he is out there every day, that he feels like a good basketball player again, not a player that is learning to be a good basketball player again. A lot of guys have been in his shoes, suffered injuries and had setbacks, but you have to come back from it. He did it at a unique time where he had never played before in college. As he paid his dues, he got to see that if you stick with it, good things happen. Now, he has to start that way and continue to grow. He will play a big role on this team, without question. To me, as the coach, right now I look at him as one of the guys that I can trust that can get out there in game two against Providence or whoever it might be. He has been in these types of games before and he can get out there and do it. I feel good about Jerome. From a setback perspective, we are not really concerned with that right now. It is always in the back of your mind, but he is full-go right now. Like every guy, he has to be mindful and take care of himself.

Q. On preparation without knowing the schedule...

MILLER: I wish I had an answer for you. How do you plan when you do not know? I guess that is the million-dollar question. How do you control what you cannot control? I cannot control a lot of the things because a lot of the decision makers in putting some things in stone for us, are above us. The control of our schedule left when the pandemic hit. I think it was inevitable that there would be some setbacks once they changed the starting date. Everyone in college basketball lost, I think, four games. When you lose four games, it changes the complexion of things. For Indiana, it is a little different. You are obligated to play in the ACC Challenge, the Gavitt Games in certain years, we are already in Maui and we have the Butler Crossroads game in stone. Those games are already in stone and usually we have dates, but we do not have those dates yet. You add in the complexity of a conference that is trying to maybe start earlier, maybe put more games on the frontside of December and early January, and you are squeezing things in and looking for dates. At the end of the day, you cannot jump one stone to get to the next until you have a definitive answer. Television plays a role, school plays a role, and there are health issues that the NCAA and certain events have to go through. The one thing that gives you a little bit of confidence is that we start practice tomorrow. Right now, we are planning on starting practice tomorrow and we know we have to be ready for Nov. 25th. If we have that game in stone on Nov. 25th, that is what we are getting ready for. We will let everything else fall into line the best we can. Every school, every coach, every team is dealing with some circumstance of uncertainty. We are not the only ones, so how we handle it is going to be the challenge. Can we do it better than other people do it? Right now, we cannot get caught up in the scheduling and the planning. We know, right now, we start tomorrow with practice. We know the 25th is our start date. How much better can we get from now and then? We will worry about the rest later.

Q. On the state of the Crossroads Classic and wanting higher assist numbers this season...

MILLER: The Crossroads, as I know it, is on. That date was set for Dec. 19. Other than the schools communicating in the offseason and throughout the early part of the year, some tweaks might be made as that date has an opportunity to move to a certain time that could benefit everyone now dealing with adjusted schedules. Those conversations have all been brought up and have happened. The Crossroads is going to happen, as far as I know. We are planning on being ready for that.

From an assist standpoint, a ball movement standpoint, number one playing more perimeter-oriented guys on the perimeter has to help that. The ballhandling, the passing, your IQ in terms of being able to play the game will hopefully lead to that. Some of our freshmen that are coming in are going to play a deeper role in the backcourt in the early part of the year, but as the season goes, we have a chance to evolve as a perimeter-oriented group that has some chemistry. The other thing with the assist totals is keeping the turnovers down. Probably more so than the assist totals, if our assists are up and our turnovers are down. The number one thing this team has to do this year to be successful is keep our turnovers down. We want to be one of the lowest turnover teams that we have ever had here. This team has to play, realistically in our league and with our schedule, this team cannot turn the ball over much more than 11 times per game, 10-11 times a game. It is so paramount to our efficiency, it is so paramount to extra points, free throws and just in general to the assist-turnover ratio. For a higher assist total, we will definitely spread the floor out, using more guards, having more multiple ballhandlers with an opportunity to make a play off the bounce, off the dribble, off of ball screens will hopefully give us a little more opportunity and space to play. It will create more drives and more sharing of the ball. It is something that we have talked a lot about in the fall is how we move it, how we have to move it. We have to have an energy level on offense that exemplifies team and sharing. The one thing that I am consumed with this group is to cut the turnovers way down to an all-time low for this team. It is going to be tough. We have some young guys that are going to be in there, as well. I think that our competition level is going to be as tough as anyone in America top-to-bottom from the front end to the back end of the schedule. I think a big reason as to why we are successful is our turnovers.

Q. On what you see in Trayce Jackson-Davis and Joey Brunk and a story about them...

MILLER: When you look at both of them the one thing that they have in common is the terrific, coachable team guy, I mean regardless of their stature or their age. Trayce being a freshman last year. Joe being a fourth-year college student, both of them really embraced the everyday process. They want to do well by their coaches. They want to do well by their teammates. They care deeply about winning. One of the big reasons why our team was able to break through at certain stages last year and not fold at times or find a way at the end of the year to be playing their best, you know, you have two guys that were added to our locker room in those two. It's not like Armaan (Franklin) wasn't a part of it as well in a big way but those two guys in general are locker room guys. They're guys that everyone around the team respects and likes. I think when you have that type of relationship with two guys that play a lot of minutes, it speaks volumes. It gives other guys an opportunity to feel good about themselves and want to play with them and want to be around them. Both guys are competitive. Both guys work very hard. I think the big thing is they're very coachable and they're really good teammates regardless of what they did on game day. They don't blink. They care about winning. I think that's the best attribute I can give both guys. One's young; one's a little bit older. I think they're both the same in that regard is they came here to win. I'm glad both of them are here. In terms of those two guys, I think my first memory of them both would've been one guy's relatively an adult in terms of his age and his experience level in school. Then you have Trayce who's a young guy. He's a freshman. They kind of came here at the same time and it was kind of like they were both new and they gravitated toward one another right away. When they went home, Trayce was working out with Joe or Joe was with Trayce working out. They come back to school, they were together. As we started to do our summer work last summer and whatnot, you could tell that those two had parted it up a little bit in terms of they were here. They were here for the right reasons. End of the day, I couldn't ask for better leadership or role model right away for Trayce to be around. At the same time as Joe arrived, I think he probably needed to look around and see a guy like Trayce that wanted to be with him. His first opportunity to be at Indiana, man, the incoming guys, they got a really good reputation and name and he wanted to be around Joe. I think both of them are really good for one another. They have a great relationship. They work really hard. I think even to this day, when they're home over the pandemic time, they would get together. Social injustice happens. You're in downtown Indianapolis and Trayce and Joey go together. I think they're more than just basketball teammates. I think they genuinely really respect each other. They like one another. I think that's the thing I probably went back to on the first part of this question was what do they bring to the table. They bring chemistry, man. Guys want to be around guys like that. You don't want to be around people that suck the air out of the locker room every other day. Those two guys are good guys man. They're good teammates and they're here for the right reasons. They want to win and I think just in general two newcomers to the lineup last year came in right away and made a big impact.

Q. On your thoughts immediately after beating Nebraska and once the season got canceled...

MILLER: I would say heading to Indianapolis for the Big Ten Tournament our team was very motivated. They had come off a very, very tough game against Wisconsin at home over the weekend. Felt like we needed to play well in the Big Ten Tournament to find a way to have some confidence to play in the NCAA Tournament well. We knew that if we went to the Big Ten Tournament in Indianapolis and we performed that we would have an opportunity to really grab momentum and do some things. We put you in a position not only to advance in that tournament but if you can advance in that tournament, you can advance in any tournament. The league is so difficult. As we approached it, I don't think that in remembering the bus ride to Indy or heading to the hotel for preparation for Nebraska or game day or heading over to IUPUI to practice that we were real worried about the pandemic, now what is COVID pandemic. At that time there were some things being discussed. As you can probably imagine we weren't really focused on it a ton. As we started to approach the game, I think it started to become a little bit more serious and I think people were wondering if the tournament would inevitably have to be canceled or would we be able to finish it or the talk of fans not coming in. There started to be that distraction. Unfortunately, with Fred (Hoiberg), he got sick the day of the game. When we approached the arena, the very first thing I think I was told as I entered the arena was 'Hey, just want to give you a heads up. Coach Hoiberg isn't feeling well' I was like, 'Not good for him. Is he going to coach?' 'Yeah, I think he's going to coach. He's going to be alright.'

If you'd look at it now and if you said a guy is sick in a game or he was going to come coach in a game sick now seven months later you would be like holy cow. What were we risking at the time? What was Fred risking at the time? Thankfully there wasn't anything there. Fred was good. I just think if that game unfolded, as soon as it ended. I can remember as soon as it ended four or five people coming right up to me and telling me about the NBA season being postponed heading into the hallway getting ready to talk to our team. Hey, let's clean up and get out of here as soon as we possibly can. Let's get back to the hotel where we can be with each other and we'll take some inventory. We have Penn State tomorrow. Going to the press conference and talking to Andy Katz and talking to a lot of other people I started to get the sense of "Oh boy, this is a little bit more serious than I gave credit for." Low and behold, very early morning prepping for Penn State, it didn't take very long for the news to kind of come in with the game wasn't going to go on. I think that was the first sense of disappointment that being able to tell the guys that we weren't going to play Penn State the next day. I mean you win in Indianapolis in front of a great crowd. The Big Ten Tournament is underway. You're excited for that. You knew that there was a lot that you could've done. We told our team, "Fellas, this one's over but we got the big one coming up. We'll wait and give you some plans when we get back. We'll have a meeting. We'll have a watch party. We'll make sure we know where were heading. We'll get off to the tournament. This is when the spoiler probably came. We didn't even get to deliver that news. It came on the cell phones on the bus. It went from a very, very somber bus to the reality of everyone was going to go home and we weren't real sure when they were coming back. That's sort of how it ended. Devonte (Green) and De'Ron (Davis), those two guys they were going to finish out their school year all of a sudden. They were going to be on their way. The team got together I think maybe one more time. Was able to get together one more time before we departed and talked at that point in time pretty personally about our year, what the two seniors had meant to the team and the season, how far we had come, to be proud of some of the things that we had done and at the end of the day there's a lot to look forward to in terms of improvement. We departed. As you know, 14-15 weeks later they had just gotten back in June. It was an overwhelming, fast I guess 24-36 hours but really when you think about what happened we went from the ultimate optimism of having a great opportunity to play in the best time of college basketball to 36 hours later of not knowing when the guys are going to come back to school. It was difficult.

I think that's why we're so thankful that number one we were able to get our guys back in June. I think we're also very thankful for how we've been treated since we've come back to school and I also think our guys take it serious right now that, man, this thing could be taken away from us in like five seconds if you don't do what you're supposed to do. There's a lot of responsibility in keeping it going. I think everybody realizes that. It's so good to be back and it's so good to be together. I think that taste in your mouth, so to speak, of the disappointment in the end of the season and how things unfolded, you know, hopefully, we can give you some realistic expectations of your self right now and how important it is to stay with it and do the right things and let's get this thing going. Let's see how far we can take it and let's enjoy it. I hate to tell you, you don't ever want to be on that bus or in that locker room, no coach does, when they tell you that you can't play anymore when you have so much more in front of you still. For the young guys, the players, a lot them these are some of the biggest games they'll ever play in. Some of the greatest moments they'll ever have in basketball. Definitely a whirlwind. Disappointing, probably like everybody else. I can remember the day very vividly probably a lot like a lot of other people do, the day that college basketball pretty much stopped. We were one of the last games that was probably able to be completed. It was definitely a different, different day.

Q. On the versatility of the roster...

MILLER: I think we're always on a quest to have versatility and skill in what we're doing. Like I said before, I do think for this group to be successful, we have to have a lot of different type of versatility offensively. Defensively, you're going to be able to do some things, scheme-wise regardless of who's on the floor with that team. You have to play hard. From an offensive standpoint, the bursts of speed, the opportunity to give guys some space and play around Tracey, get Tracey to play with Joe, Race, Jerome can be in there as a smaller forward, Jordan. But to be able to have Rob with Khristian and Al on the floor at the same time, although not ideal, but maybe they're your best offensive player on any given night. So definitely giving them the freedom to be able to play together more, having different combinations of lineups. And also keeping things simple where you don't have to learn a ton. Don't have to learn a ton, a ton of stuff. So you're always thinking. I think we want our guys to be aggressive in their role and play that way, but it's a team that if it does reach its potential, it will be one of the great strengths that we have is not only versatility, but I think a lot of different guys can contribute in a lot of ways.

Q. On how the student-athletes are protecting themselves on campus...

MILLER: Good question. I think that everyone handles it differently and everyone communicates differently. For us, our guys know that in our space, in our so-to-speak technically soft bubble, whatever you want to say that's where you're going to be the most safe. That's where the facility protocol – distancing, masks – guys are going to be on top of you if you're not doing it. It's not going to work. Not so you're always in an environment when you're training or with each other, it's trying to be done right. When you leave, it's up to you so to speak, but it's also up to your teammates as well. You have to protect the team. And I think, you know, protecting the team, puts you in a situation where you have to make good decisions with who you're with. when you're with them. If you're in a large group of people and you can't help it, you have to put a mask on. That's common protocol. I mean, if you're not in a group of people that you know, in a dorm room or whatnot, you probably shouldn't be there. It's the time that you're in and responsibility and sacrifice that you have that if you want to play. If you don't want to play, you have to do what everybody else is doing but don't expect it to work because you're not going to be able to come back into that facility, you're not going to be able to function on a day basis if you don't treat it the right way.

So for our guys, I think they've done a good job. Classes are a little different this year. Probably 75 or 80% of them are more virtual. They're not out and about on the campus from nine to five every day like you normally would be. So they're a little more contained there. From an academic standpoint, it's a lot more Zoom, it's a lot less face-to-face tutor sessions, that protects them a little bit more. How IU has set up the student-athlete areas in terms of eating – when you can eat, how you have to operate with food, no buffet style. The training room rules are different, so they've gotten accustomed in getting used to it a little bit away from us that they have to be able to kind of have their own routine. I think the good thing about our guys that I used to think 'this is probably this is nerve-wracking, this is bad' is that they all live together. So they're always around each other, they have one another and they can hold each other accountable in the areas that are after hours or whatnot. If a guy has to be addressed and you have to stop it, it's going to be up to you to protect each other because it impacts everybody. We try to do that the best we can. But just in general, it comes down to the bottom line – we want to have a season. If we want to have a season, we're going to have to do things as careful as we possibly can. No one's perfect and it's not a very easy situation in normal everyday society to avoid people or avoid situations, especially young people. But you're different. And they always tell you 'you'll be held to a different standard'. I think the standard that you have to hold each other to is if you want to represent Indiana on the court, you want to be a part of college basketball, we're going to have to do things off the floor that are more important than on the floor. I will say this though – since this whole thing started and until today, like I just said this to Scott Dolson earlier, we can't thank our administration from our President to Scott to Fred before he left, to our doctors and our medical team and to all of our trainers for the time and effort that it's taken to get Indiana running our operation as an athletic department and particularly when it comes to men's basketball, giving us a chance to be successful. They're doing everything in their power on a weekly basis to help our guys, to help our staff, to help all the teams in general, but most importantly, when it comes to us because that's what I can speak to, is they've done an amazing job of educating us, helping us and caring for everyone when things don't go well. And I think that that just sort of speaks to what we have going on here. As the season continues to get closer, the one thing I can fall back on, we've got great medical expertise. We have a great training staff, Tim Garl is an absolute stud when it comes down to handling our guys. And Scott like I said in his administration since the start of the school year, it's been all hands on deck. And I can't thank them enough because there's a lot of schools, a lot of great programs, a lot of great coaches and players that are struggling all around the country with different problems, different this and that. From my standpoint, they've done everything in their power to give us a shot to be successful. So that's all you can ask for when it comes to this thing to be honest with you.

A MAGICAL MOMENT - COACH KNIGHT RETURNS TO SIMON SKJODT ASSEMBLY HALL

By: Pete DiPrimio, IUHoosiers.com

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. - Once a coach, always a coach.

Bob Knight, the legendary former head coach of Indiana basketball, the man who helped the Hoosiers to three of their five national championships and won nearly twice as many games as any other basketball coach in Indiana University history, returned to Simon Skjodt Assembly Hall following a near 20-year absence to the thunderous adoration of a sell-out crowd on Feb. 8 against Purdue.

During a ceremony at halftime of the Hoosiers' battle with the rival Boilermakers, former players from the 1979-80 Big Ten championship team and throughout the decades were honored, but it was Knight's appearance that was the highlight. Knight's former players were announced, then a video presentation helped introduce the coach who is, for many, Indiana basketball.

He didn't speak to the crowd. He didn't have to. Everyone else was happy to speak for him.

"I think this is one of the great days in college sports history," said Quinn Buckner, a star during his days at IU and an anchor on Knight's undefeated 1975-76 team.

Buckner was joined by another former IU star, Randy Wittman, in the hallway after halftime. The grown men were emotional. Their coach had finally returned home.

"Randy was very instrumental and led the charge," Buckner said. "We all pitched in to try to get him here to see the reaction from the people who appreciate not only Indiana basketball, but Coach Bob Knight. We thought that was really important. Get him in and let him really enjoy it. We really think he did. Did you see him get fired up?"

Knight enjoyed the warmth of the crowd and plenty of hugs with his former players, but on Branch McCracken Court once again, Knight couldn't help himself.

He pumped his first. He yelled "Play defense!" to the student section, drawing another roar from the crowd.

Again, once a coach, always a coach.

It's almost difficult to put into words how important Knight's return to Assembly Hall was to much of the Indiana fanbase. The building Knight built into one of the most intimidating in all of college basketball chanted "Bobby! Bobby! Bobby!" as Knight walked onto the court, escorted by his son, Pat Knight, Buckner, former IU player Steve Green, and former IU star Scott May.

Knight's departure from IU in 2000 was controversial, and echoes of Knight's dismissal still resound with some fans today. There were many who feared the man they called "The General" would never come back to Bloomington let alone Assembly Hall.

IU has reached out to Knight repeatedly over the years, but old wounds can take a while to heal. The time that has passed, the reasons why it took so long for Knight to come back, ultimately are irrelevant.

"We have to be realistic about today," Buckner said. "We had a historic day. The only thing that matters is that coach came back to Bloomington, and he came back to IU. What was here before is gone."

Then-Director of Athletics Fred Glass welcomed Knight back with open arms.

"Over the course of his Hall-of-Fame career, I don't think anything meant more to Coach Knight than the relationships he developed with his players," Glass said. "It's great that he is able to enjoy this moment with so many of them. We are very pleased to welcome him back to Simon Skjodt Assembly Hall."

Wittman wasn't shy about his feelings.

"I am emotional," Wittman said. "He's a big part of who I am and who we are. I came here as a kid and left here as a man. What I've done in my life was in a big part owed to him. It's very emotional."

Knight was emotional as well. He had tears in his eyes as the cheers washed over him, and he clearly enjoyed spending time with his players. But the spark is always there.

He embraced former guard Keith Smart, the kid who drained a floating jumper with :04 seconds left to bring the Hoosiers their 1987 national championship. Knight hugged Smart, grabbed his shoulders, and shook him for a second. Smart immediately responded by breaking down into a defensive stance and moving his feet, recreating a drill that he had run thousands of times for Knight during his IU days.

It all made for a special moment in Indiana basketball history, the brightest spot in what has been a roller-coaster year. The 2019-20 Hoosiers fell to Purdue, but for those in attendance, the day wasn't about the present. It was about the past and dreaming of a brighter future.

"As Quinn said, I don't know if there's going to be a bigger day," Wittman said. "Hopefully we'll win a couple more national championships before long, but to have our coach go back to Indiana and let these fans and the state of Indiana show their appreciation... and he showed his appreciation for them."

Knight visited with ESPN analyst Dick Vitale on the court, joking that he wanted the headset. Knight then led the crowd in a fist-pumping chant of "Defense! De-fense!" again before making his way off the court with Pat Knight, Smart, and former star Mike Woodson in tow.

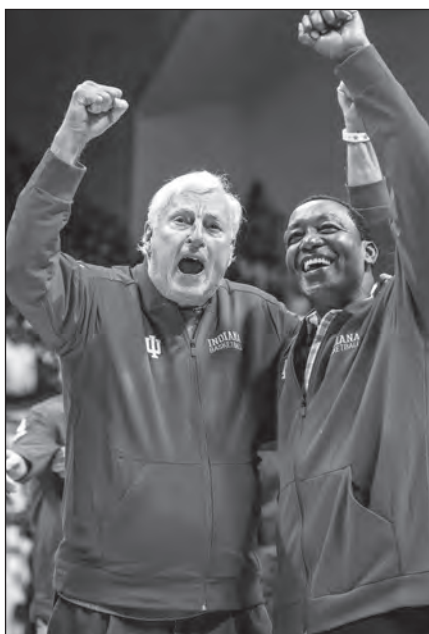

But then Knight stopped. He stood just short of the tunnel he had entered countless times before. He raised his hands to the student section, most of whom weren't even born when he last coached at IU. It didn't make a difference. They understood the impact of the man, the importance of the moment. The students roared one more time, and Knight stood with his head down.

He remained in place for 17 seconds, savoring the moment. The IU band broke into the final five notes of the IU fight song, and when the fans screamed the traditional "I-U!" to close the song, The General once again began marching, this time out of the spotlight.

Knight may return again in the future. He may not. It doesn't make a difference. The chance for Knight to walk on the court one more time, to bask in the roars of the crowd, has been anticipated for years. Now it has happened, and it's a moment that will provide closure for many.

Woodson was clear why he felt it was important for Knight to finally return to Assembly Hall.

"He made all his marks right here at Indiana University," Woodson said. "This is home."

- In addition, Langford, who was a lottery pick by the Boston Celtics and Juwan Morgan who earned a contract with the Utah Jazz, both began their NBA careers last season.

- In 2018-19, the Hoosiers earned their first national ranking under Miller and were rated as high as 21st in the country in early January. IU earned nationally ranked wins over Michigan State (twice), Marquette (Gavitt Games) and Wisconsin and notched triumphs against Louisville and Butler (Crossroads Classic).

- IU finished with 19 wins and won two post season games in the NIT. Senior Juwan Morgan and Langford would go on to earn All-Big Ten honors and Langford was named to the USBWA All-District team. Morgan would finish his career 24th on the IU all-time scoring list and also finished eighth in career blocks and 10th in career rebounds. The Hoosiers also improved to 32nd in adjusted defense after finishing 65th in 2017-18. IU also finished 36th in the country in blocked shots.

- In his first season at IU, Miller saw the Hoosiers improve dramatically. After seeing IU allow 76 points per game on 45.9 percent shooting and 41.7 percent accuracy from 3-point range in the month of November, IU limited teams to 65.4 points on 41.3 percent shooting from the floor and 33.1 percent from long distance in the month of February.

- IU posted a two-win improvement in the Big Ten from 2016-17 to 2017-18.

- He saw junior forward Juwan Morgan emerge as the most improved player in the Big Ten adding more than 10 points per game scoring in Big Ten play during the 2017-18 season. Morgan earned second-team All-Big Ten honors and was named All-District by the USBWA and NABC in 2018. Senior Rob Johnson averaged a career-best 14.0 points per game earned honorable mention All-Big-Ten honors his senior year.

- Regarded as one of the top young coaches in the country, Miller is a tireless recruiter, noted developer of talent, and a gifted tactician whose teams are known for their stout defense and efficient offense. His 2018 recruiting class at IU was ranked 7th in the nation after a successful haul of players from the Big Ten footprint.

- The 41-year old native of Beaver Falls, Pennsylvania, came to IU after serving six seasons as head coach at the University of Dayton, where he won Atlantic 10 Conference regular season championships in 2016 and 2017.

- He guided the Flyers to a 139-63 record (69.8) and a 68-34 mark (66.7) in the Atlantic 10. He took Dayton to the NCAA Tournament each of the last four years with the Flyers advancing to the Elite Eight in the 2014 Tournament. UD was nationally ranked in three of Miller's six seasons (2013-14, 2014-15 and 2015-16).

- During their elite eight run, UD topped Ohio State (60-59), Syracuse (55-53) and Stanford (82-72) before falling to Florida (62-52) in the regional finals. In 2015, they defeated Boise State (56-55) and Providence (66-53) and were eliminated by Oklahoma (72-66) in the Sweet Sixteen. In 2016, they were defeated by Final Four participant Syracuse (70-51) in the second round.

- Miller is one of five active coaches who had at least five NCAA wins in his first four seasons. The others are Mark Few, Thad Matta, Shaka Smart and Roy Williams. With three NCAA wins in 2014 and another two in 2015, Dayton was one of just six teams to have at least five NCAA tournament wins in those two years. The others were Arizona, UConn, Kentucky, Michigan State and Wisconsin.

- For his efforts during the 2016-17 season, he was named Atlantic 10 and NABC District Coach of the Year. He led UD to perform at a championship level despite playing a 2016-17 campaign where the team's top six scorers missed a total of 32 games during the year due to injury. He also was a finalist for the 2015 Jim Phelan National Coach of the Year Award.

- He comes from a family of coaches with his father, John, having guided Archie and his brother Sean at Blackhawk High School in Beaver Falls. His brother Sean has been the head coach at the University of Arizona and also was the head coach at Xavier University. John was one of the country's top high school coaches when he retired in 2005, with 657 wins in a 35-year coaching career. Archie, Sean and their sister Lisa all played Division I college basketball.

- Miller is regarded as a top recruiter – Arizona's 2011 recruits were a Top 10 class – and game strategist – he was the architect of the Wildcats upset of eighth-ranked Texas to get them to the Sweet 16. He was reunited with his brother during the summer of 2015 on the coaching staff of USA Basketball's U19 World Championship. When Sean was elevated to the team's head coach, he turned to his brother to help USA basketball win the gold at the 2015 FIBA U19 World Championship that was held June 27-July 5 in Heraklion, Crete, Greece.

- He was a four-year letterwinner at North Carolina State from 1998-2002. A point guard, he is currently third at NC State in career FT% (.846, 165-195), sixth in career 3-pt. FG% (.429, 218-509), and fourth in career threes (218). As a senior, he helped lead the Wolfpack to the finals of the ACC championship game and was named to the all-tournament team. That season was coach Herb Sendek's first NCAA team at NC State.

- As an assistant, Miller coached in the Big Ten, Pac-12 and ACC, where he honed his craft under some of the most respected coaches in the country. He began his coaching career at NC State, serving as a coaching intern under Sendek in 2002-03. Miller then went to Western Kentucky as a full-time member of Darrin Horn's staff for one season. He returned to NC State, first as Director of Basketball Operations (2004-05), and then as a full-time assistant coach (2005-06). When Sendek went to Arizona State in 2006-07, Miller remained on his coaching staff before joining Thad Matta at Ohio State for two seasons (2007-09). As a coach, he has been part of 20-plus win and NCAA seasons at NC State (2005-06), Ohio State (2008-09), Arizona (2010-11), and Dayton (2013-14, 2014-15, 2015-16 and 2016-17).

- In April, 2015, he joined his father and brother in the Beaver County Sports Hall of Fame. Other greats in the Beaver County Hall include Mike Ditka, Tony Dorsett, Terry Francona, Pete and Press Maravich, Joe Namath, Babe Parilli and Norm Van Lier.

- Miller earned his bachelor's degree in Parks, Recreation and Tourism from NC State in 2002. He was born October 30, 1978. He is married to the former Morgan Nicole Cruse and they have a 15-year old daughter, Leah.

ALL-AMERICANS

EVERETT DEAN - 1921

Everett Dean was the first Hoosier to earn All-America honors. The 6-0 center averaged 10.7 points as a senior in 1921. With Dean in the lineup, the Hoosiers were 10-7 in 1919, 13-8 in 1920 and 15-6 in 1921. In his final season, Dean scored 21 points against Ohio State, the first IU player to reach 20 points since Dean Barnhart recorded 21 against Rose Poly in 1911. Academics were also high on Dean's list as he won the Big Ten medal of honor for academic and athletic excellence as a senior. In 1924, Dean returned to Indiana, this time as a coach. Over his 14-year coaching stint, Dean was 162-93 overall and 96-72 in Big Ten play.

JIM STRICKLAND - 1929

During the first eight games of his sophomore season in 1928, Jim Strickland scored only 15 points. But after the loss of top player Art Beckner, Strickland scored 19 points in his first start as IU destroyed Kentucky, 48-29. He went on to net 16 points in the Hoosiers 40-37 victory over Purdue and led IU to a share of the Big Ten title. One year later, Strickland became Indiana's second All-American. He tallied 120 points in 1929, including a game-high 20 in the Hoosiers' 37-36 overtime win over Minnesota.

His presence helped Indiana to a 15-2 record and a share of the Big Ten title. Against Chicago, in his first league contest, McCracken exploded for 24 points helping IU to a 32-13 victory. His 24 points set an IU record for Big Ten play, one that would not be broken for another 10 years. In 1929, McCracken finished second in the Big Ten scoring race with 100 points. In his final season, McCracken netted 206 points and reached double figures on 11 occasions. He scored 146 points in Big Ten play, a new conference record. McCracken came back to Indiana to coach for 24 seasons, leading the Hoosiers to two national titles and four Big Ten crowns. His overall record was 364-174, 210-116 in the conference.

After injury kept him from the Indiana lineup in 1934-35, Huffman returned to lead the Hoosiers to an 18-2 record and their first conference crown since 1928. He contributed 95 points during his All-America season. Huffman was the Big Ten's Most Valuable Player for football and IU's Big Ten Medal winner.

He is one of just five players to do that in more than 40 years of conference records. His scoring average was also an IU record. McGinnis scored 20 or more points in 21 of his 24 college games, including an Indiana record 14 times in a row. He scored over 30 points on 12 different occasions, a Hoosier single-season record. QUINN BUCKNER - 1975, 1976

One would think a perfect 18-0 conference record is something that only comes along once in a lifetime. Quinn Buckner and members of the Hoosier Basketball team from 1974-76 proved that history can repeat itself. Buckner's four-year career at Indiana featured four consecutive Big Ten Championships, two undefeated conference seasons, one unbeaten regular season and an NCAA title. IU's captain as a junior and senior, Buckner was considered one of the greatest leaders the Hoosier backcourt has ever seen. Upon finishing his college career, Buckner helped lead the 1976 U.S. Olympic team to an 8-0 record and a gold medal. He went on to play 10 NBA seasons and in 1984 with the Boston Celtics, joined Jerry Lucas as the only players ever to be on championship teams in high school, college, the Olympics and the NBA. Only Magic Johnson has since completed that feat.

SCOTT MAY - 1975, 1976

Scott May was another member of the Indiana dream team of 1976. An undefeated season, four Big Ten Championship rings and an NCAA title are just a few of the accomplishments under May's name. As a junior, the All-American helped lead Indiana to a perfect 18-0 conference record, only to break his arm in the final game of the regular season. Without May, the Hoosiers' tournament title dreams ended with a 92-90 Midwest Regional championship loss to Kentucky. May returned for his final season in perfect condition and proved it by helping IU to its one and only unbeaten season. The 1976 Player of the Year was the Hoosiers' leading scorer on Bob Knight's first national championship team. May also contributed to the gold medal U.S. Olympic team following his senior season. He averaged 14.2 points for the Chicago Bulls, making the NBA All-Rookie team. His NBA career spanned seven seasons.

KENT BENSON - 1975, 1976, 1977

Nicknamed Big Red for his recognizable red hair, Kent Benson was part of one of the most amazing periods of Indiana Basketball. After an average 1973-74 season, the Hoosiers took the world by storm in 1974-75, posting a perfect 29-0 regular season record. After teammate Scott May broke his arm, Benson did his part against Kentucky to try to keep the NCAA Tournament dream alive. Benson netted 33 points and grabbed 23 boards but IU fell 92-90 and Benson would have to look forward to his junior season. Benson was named All-Big Ten as a sophomore and his list of honors is endless. During the 1976 championship run, Benson racked up 25 points in the final game at the Final Four and received the Most Outstanding Player Award. The dream would come true as Indiana dominated Michigan for the tournament crown. After a final year at IU, Benson was the first player taken in the NBA draft. He played eight NBA seasons for Milwaukee, Detroit, Utah and Cleveland.

MIKE WOODSON - 1979, 1980

Mike Woodson became Indiana's 11th All-American in five seasons. He averaged 21.0 points during his junior season and helped lead Indiana to an NIT Championship. Woodson captained the USA's Pan American Games team to a gold medal during the summer prior to his senior year and was all set to have a perfect season with the Hoosiers. After five games and a No. 1 ranking, Woodson suffered a herniated disc in his back and had to undergo surgery. Upon losing Woodson, the Hoosiers went 7-5 in the Big Ten until he returned to spark Indiana back into action. IU finished the conference season with six straight victories and won the Big Ten title. Woodson was the MVP after playing in only six league games that season. Following his senior year, Woodson went on to an 11-year, 10,981-point NBA career with New York, New Jersey, Kansas City, Sacramento, the Los Angeles Clippers and Houston.

ISIAH THOMAS - 1981

The only thing disappointing about Isiah Thomas' IU career is the fact that he only played two years in a Hoosier uniform before turning pro. Before even playing a game at Indiana, Thomas played on Bob Knight's gold-medal Pan-American Games team in San Juan. Thomas helped lead the U.S. team to a 113-94 victory over Puerto Rico in the championship battle. At IU, Thomas started every game he played. He was a member and leader of two Indiana teams that won Big Ten Championships. During his second and final season at IU, Thomas led the Hoosiers in scoring and set a single-season school record for assists with 197. In the 1981 championship game, Thomas led all scorers with 23 points and was honored as the Outstanding Player. Several weeks later, he announced he was headed for the NBA. A No. 2 draft pick, Thomas was an instant success in the NBA. He received Rookie of the Year honors and was a starting All-Star from his first year on. He led the Detroit Pistons to two NBA Championships and his No. 11 was retired by the Pistons.

LONDON TURNER - 1982

The courage and strength shown by Landon Turner can be matched by few athletes around the country. Turner had an up and down basketball career during his first two years at Indiana. During his junior season in 1981, Knight gave Turner one last chance to prove he could contribute. Turner responded with a 4-of-5 performance against Northwestern, which boosted an already powerful line-up. Turner went on to reach double figures in nine of his last 11 games. The Hoosiers won their last five regular season games and earned their second straight Big Ten crown. Turner was on the rise heading into his senior season when disaster struck. On his way to Kings Island in Cincinnati, Ohio, Turner lost control of his vehicle and crashed in an accident that left him paralyzed from the chest down. Turner eventually graduated from Indiana in 1984 and went on to play wheelchair basketball. He was named an honorary All-American by the U.S. Basketball Writers Association and received the Most Courageous Athlete award in 1989.

TED KITCHEL - 1982, 1983

By his sophomore year, Ted Kitchel already had two Big Ten titles and had an NCAA Championship ring on his finger. He also set a conference record that still stands today when he hit all 18 of his free throw attempts in an Indiana victory over Illinois. Kitchel was a starter on an all-senior lineup that began the 1982-83 season 10-0 and gained a No. 1 ranking. On a weekend trip to Michigan late in the league season, Kitchel sank a three-pointer and fell to the floor. An early back problem had returned and his season was over. Despite the injury, Kitchel averaged 17.3 points and was one of the league's top scorers.

RANDY WITTMAN - 1983

Randy Wittman and Ted Kitchel experienced similar careers at Indiana. Five-year roommates, injury caused redshirt seasons for both individuals. Wittman gathered up his conference championships and NCAA title by his sophomore season. He and Kitchel were major contributors throughout their careers. After Kitchel suffered an injury late in the Big Ten 1982-83 season, Wittman and the Hoosiers were in a tie for the conference lead with three games remaining. Wittman took Indiana under his wing, helping the Hoosiers rout Purdue, Illinois and Ohio State for yet another Big Ten Championship. Wittman shot .543 on the season and averaged a team-leading 18.9 points. He was IU's third Big Ten MVP in four years. In his IU career, Wittman played an IU-recorded 4,699 minutes, including the full 40 minutes 45 times. He went on to a productive nine-year NBA career and is currently an assistant coach with the Washington Wizards.

STEVE ALFORD - 1986, 1987

Steve Alford may have been born dribbling a basketball. Alford was not only a talented athlete, but he had the work ethic and determination to bring out the most of his abilities. An Indiana Mr. Basketball as a high school senior, Alford averaged 37 points a game and never scored less than 20 points in a game his final two seasons. As a freshman at Indiana, Alford led the nation in free throw shooting with a 91.3 percentage and led the Hoosiers with 15.5 points a game. After just missing a Final Four appearance that year, Alford and the Hoosiers had a slow season his sophomore year. He still managed to make history, draining 58 of 62 free throws during the Big Ten season. He also averaged a team-high 18.1 points. Alford continued to improve as a junior as he averaged 22.5 points and brought his team to a 21-8 record. The team was shocked in an NCAA Tournament opening round loss but would return for Alford's senior season with a vigor never seen before. In the first season of college basketball's three-point shot, Alford hit seven treys on two different occasions. He set an NCAA record with his seven baskets from beyond the arc in the championship game, a victory over Syracuse that would secure a fifth national title for the Hoosiers. Alford was the Big Ten MVP in 1987 and went on to a brief NBA career.

JAY EDWARDS - 1989

Jay Edwards made his debut appearance in a Hoosier jersey under the fan pressure to see a repeat NCAA Championship performance in 1988. Although Indiana did not obtain back-to-back titles, Edwards gave the Hoosier faithful a sight to see. The Big Ten Freshman of the Year had an NCAA freshman record .536 three-point percentage. He broke Alford's conference record of seven threes in a game. As a sophomore, Edwards led Indiana to a Big Ten title with last second shots to knock off Purdue and Michigan. With an average of 20 points a game and All-America achievement, Edwards gave up his final two years of eligibility to enter the draft and was a second-round pick of the Los Angeles Clippers.

Calbert Cheaney was Bob Knight's first-ever left-handed player and a good choice he was. Cheaney is the only Indiana freshman to start the season opener and score 20 points. Cheaney kept the Hoosiers a national power during all four of his years at Indiana. As a freshman he led the team in scoring with a 17.1 average. Over his final three seasons, Indiana spent all but two of 53 poll weeks in the Top 10 and 38 in the top five. The Hoosiers were 87-16 during those years. In his second season, Cheaney set a school-record with a .596 shooting percentage and an average of 21.6 points per game. Cheaney took on captainship of the team following that year. Indiana was unable to come up with a championship but outscored opponents by 17.6 points to lead the nation. Cheaney led the team to a Final Four appearance as a junior. On his way, he gained control of the all-time Big Ten men's scoring record with his career total of 2,613 points, a record that still stands. Cheaney was named the National Player of the Year (Wooden Award), a unanimous All-American, Big Ten MVP and was taken No. 6 in the NBA draft by Washington.

He led teams to three national AAU championships and Bedford North Lawrence High School to the state's Final Four three out of four years. As a senior, a national record crowd of 41,046 watched Bailey and his teammates top Concord for the state championship. He was named USA Today's High School Player of the Decade. At Indiana, Bailey played in 108 victories including an IU-record 11 NCAA tournament victories. Bailey's career as a Hoosier ended in the third round of NCAA Tournament play his senior year. ALAN HENDERSON - 1995

During Henderson's sophomore season, the Hoosiers were ranked No. 1 for almost the entire season, but their championship hopes took a turn for the worse when Henderson tore a ligament in his knee in February. Indiana managed a Big Ten Championship but Kansas was victorious in the regional final of the NCAA Tournament. Henderson came back strong as a junior, building up to a 41-point performance against Michigan State at the end of the season. Indiana reached the Sweet 16 for the fourth straight season but could not advance further. As a senior, Henderson scored 20 or more points on 24 occasions and recorded 49 double-doubles in his four years. He set IU's career rebounding record with 1,091, topping a record set 34 years before. Henderson was the Atlanta Hawks' first round draft pick, eventually becoming a starter and outstanding player for the Hawks.

Kirk Haston carried the Hoosiers in Mike Davis' first season as head coach, scoring 19 points and pulling down 8.7 rebounds per game. He led the Big Ten in conference scoring and ranked second in rebounding. Haston's game came to life in 2000-2001, as he discovered the three-point shot. No 3-pointer was bigger than the one he hit at the buzzer to beat No. 1 Michigan State, the first time Indiana had posted a victory over a top-ranked team in Assembly Hall. Haston concluded his career ranked 17th in school history with 1,406 points scored and finished ninth in career rebounds with 748. He earned All-Big Ten first team honors as a junior and second team honors as a sophomore.

BIG TEN PLAYER OF THE YEAR

STEVE ALFORD - 1987

In all four of his years at Indiana, Steve Alford led the Indiana Hoosiers in scoring. He is the second Hoosier to accomplish that feat as Don Schlundt did it from 1952-1955. During his senior season, he had his most prolific effort, tallying 749 points, including a school-record 107 three-point field goals. The New Castle, Ind., native finished his career as Indiana's career scoring leader with 2,438 points and now ranks second all-time. His career point total also ranks as the fifth-best in conference history. Behind the 1987 Big Ten MVP, the Hoosiers finished the season with a record of 30-4 (15-3) and claimed the school's most recent National Championship by defeating Syracuse 74-73 in the NCAA Championship game. In his last game as a Hoosier, Alford went 8-15 from the field, including a remarkable 7-10 from three-point range, to lead all scorers with 23 points. For the second consecutive season, the 6-2 guard received both All-America and first-team All-Big Ten honors.

En route to winning the 1993 Big Ten MVP award, Cheaney averaged 22.4 points per contest in 35 appearances. His school-record 785 points in one season puts him high at the top of the leaderboard for career points in the Big Ten (2,613). He led the 31-4 Hoosiers to (17-1) their 22nd consecutive NCAA appearance after winning the 1993 Big Ten title. Cheaney completed a clean sweep of College Basketball Player of the Year Awards as he won 12 such awards. In 1993, Cheaney became one of only three Hoosiers to earn All-America honors three times. He was also named Preseason NIT MVP.

D.J. White was named Big Ten MVP after he was second in the Big Ten in scoring (17.4), first in rebounds (10.3) and field goal percentage (56.2) and fourth in blocked shots (1.64). He was named second-team All-America by CMSSports.com, the Sporting News, Sports Illustrated, the USBWA and the NABC. He finished 16th in career scoring (1,447) and ninth in IU history in rebounds (748). He was the first player since Alan Henderson in 1994 to average a double-double for a season. His best game of the year was a 21-point, 22-rebound effort at Michigan. He was named Big Ten Player of the Year and was a candidate for the Wooden Award and Naismith Award. He could have applied for a medical hardship to regain a year of eligibility, but elected to enter the NBA Draft where he was drafted in the first round by the Detroit Pistons (29th overall) and later traded to the Seattle Supersonics who then became the Oklahoma City Thunder.

Dean led the Hoosiers to their first-ever Big Ten Conference co-championship which they clinched in a 15-point victory over Wisconsin to end the 1926 season. He led the squad to two more Big Ten titles and had an impressive overall career record of 162-93 with a Big Ten mark of 96-72 which was by far the most successful coaching career in Indiana basketball history at the time. Dean's era officially kicked off the tradition of Hoosier basketball at Indiana University that continues today. Dean was inducted into the Indiana University Athletic Hall of Fame in 1982.

364-174 (.677), 210-116 (.644)

While Dean's era dug the foundation for college basketball at Indiana, Branch McCracken's two stints as Indiana University Head Basketball Coach were the concrete needed to solidify that foundation. McCracken spent 24 years at the helm of the "Hurryin' Hoosiers" and brought two National Championships, four Big Ten Championships and IU's first four 20-win seasons to Bloomington. The first national title came in 1940 when the Hoosiers finished 20-3 overall and 9-3 in the Big Ten. NCAA Championship number two came in the 1952-53 season when the squad racked up a then-school-record 23 wins to only three losses, an unprecedented 17-1 Big Ten record and IU's first number 1 national ranking and first outright Big Ten Championship. McCracken led the squad to a 364-174 overall record and a 210-116 Big Ten record. His 450 career wins places him 76th on the NCAA's all-time victories list and 86th on the all-time winningest coaches list. "The General" led the Hoosiers to three national championships, 11 Big Ten championships and one National Invitation Tournament title. The greatest accomplishment in the Bob Knight era was the 1975-76 National Championship run where the Hoosiers began the year as the Associated Press' preseason number one team and carried that ranking all the way through the season to Knight's first and the school's third NCAA Championship. That squad was also the last team to finish the season perfect with a 32-0 overall record and an 18-0 Big Ten mark. Knight's second title came during the 1980-81 season when Isiah Thomas led the squad to the NCAA title over the North Carolina Tar Heels. The squad's final championship of the Knight era came in the 1986-87 season when Keith Smart hit the game-winning shot to defeat Syracuse in the national title game. Knight's career saw numerous achievements by both the coach himself and his players. He was awarded with National Coach-of-the-Year honors on four occasions in 1975, 76, 87 and 1989. He ranks sixth on the all-time coaches list for victories and is the 30th winningest coach of all-time. Under Knight's leadership, Calbert Cheaney became the all-time leading scorer in Big Ten history. He also coached nine Big Ten MVPs and had a total of 27 All-Americans play in Assembly Hall. Davis directed the Hoosiers to a share of the 2002 Big Ten championship and an appearance in the 2002 national championship game. However, prior to the start of the season, IU announced that a series of recruiting sanctions and corrective actions were being imposed on Sampson and his staff. When the NCAA announced that possible major violations had occurred during his tenure, Sampson resigned after leading IU to a 22-4 record.

He suited up the least experienced team in Big Ten history during his first season and took his team to the EA Sports Maui Invitational and had the Hoosiers play the first-ever game in Lucas Oil Stadium against Gonzaga. His first recruiting class in 2009 was ranked tops in the Big Ten and among the top 10 in the country. In year two, the Hoosiers defeated Pitt at Madison Square Garden and Crean picked up his first conference road win at Penn State. The third year saw the Hoosiers defeat No. 20 Illinois and No. 18 Minnesota in Assembly Hall to give Crean his first two victories over ranked opponents at Indiana. He led IU to a 27-9 mark and a berth in the Sweet Sixteen in year four and defeated the No. 1, No. 2 and No. 5 squads in the country while posting a 15 1/2 game turnaround, the largest among major college programs. He was named National Coach of the Year by ESPN.com following the season. The 2012-13 season saw the Hoosiers finish 29-7 and win their first outright Big Ten Conference championship in 20 years when they won at Michigan, 72-71 on the final day of the regular season. - Knight then went on to coach the JV basketball team at Cuyahoga Falls (Ohio) High School for one season before enlisting in the U.S. Army. Then in 1965 he was named the head coach of the Army men's basketball program, where he would go on to post a record of 102-50 in six seasons.

- In 1971, Knight was named the head coach at Indiana University and went on to win three national championships in his 29 years leading the Hoosiers. His overall record at Indiana was 662-239.

- Then in 2001, he was hired as the head coach at Texas Tech where he would spend the next six-plus seasons and compiled a 138-82 record and three trips to the NCAA Tournament.

BOB KNIGHT

On Nov. 6, 2009, legendary IU coach Bob Knight, the winningest NCAA coach in collegiate men's basketball, was among the 2009 Indiana University Intercollegiate Athletics Hall of Fame inductee class. Knight won three national championships, was Big Ten Coach of the Year seven times and National Coach of the Year twice.

Representing Coach Knight that evening was 2008 IU Hall of Famer and joined former Hoosier basketball standout Steve Downing as one of the seven honorees. The class was officially inducted at the annual Hall of Fame dinner on Nov. 6, and was recognized at halftime of the football game against Wisconsin at Memorial Stadium, the following day.

The Hall of Fame was established in 1982 by the Indiana University Varsity Club National Board of Directors, in cooperation with Indiana University, its Department of Intercollegiate Athletics, the I Association, and the Indiana University Alumni Association. Its purpose is to recognize and honor individuals who have made exceptional contributions to the achievements and prestige of Indiana University in the field of athletics and who have demonstrated the values imparted by intercollegiate athletics. Each year, a subcommittee of the Indiana University Varsity Club National Board of Directors selects inductees for the Hall of Fame.

GOING GLOBAL

Indiana University's Basketball program has been well represented in the U.S. National team's history and in international competition.

Among the most memorable IU connections with international play was the Games of the XXIII Olympiad in Los Angeles during the summer of 1984. Three Hoosiers participated in the games, IU coach Bob Knight as the U.S. head coach, Steve Alford as one of the 12 U.S. players and Uwe Blab on the West German squad.

A large banner of the Olympic rings and U.S.A. stitched into the rings hangs in Assembly Hall as a remembrance of the role Hoosier fans, players and coaches had in the U.S.A. gold medal effort.

Indiana hosted the team selection in April 1984 when 74 candidates worked out daily in the IU Fieldhouse. Over 34,000 turned out over two nights to watch the final trials games. A dinner with over 3,000 attending in the RCA Dome at Indianapolis saluted the U.S. team and helped raise over $131,000 for the U.S. Olympic Committee. More Olympic contributions came when 17,100 watched a June game in Assembly Hall between the U.S. team and a group of former Indiana players.

A highlight of the summer came in July when the RCA Dome had quite a debut for its first sporting event. Exceeding all expectations, 67,596 fans turned out for two exhibition games featuring the U.S. men's and women's Olympic Basketball teams.

The U.S. squad turned aside eight opponents en route to the gold medal with some of the decisions very one-sided thanks to contributions from all 12 U.S. players. Alford and Blab's respective teams met during pool play, and the U.S. won, 78-67. It was the closest margin of victory for the U.S. team.

HOOSIER HOME COURTS

OLD ASSEMBLY HALL

Indiana University Basketball has in its 100-year existence come full circle. Today, the 17,000-plus capacity Assembly Hall is a mecca for sporting arenas, just as old Assembly Hall was in its day.

The original Assembly Hall was not a sporting arena, it was a small one-story structure with a wooden frame. The building, located near the Indiana Memorial Union, was built in 1895 and had a price tag of $12,000. When full the building could seat 600 people for a basketball game. It also was the practice site for the team and the gymnasium for physical education classes.

IU's first-ever game was on February 8, 1901 against Butler. The game was described by the Indianapolis News as a "fast" and "hard-fought" game which had Butler on top 20-17. The first game at Assembly Hall came 20 days later against Butler. In another tight game, Butler pulled it out 24-20 and left IU 0-2.

Opponents were rare and basketball was still enduring growing pains, but the 1901 total of two games doubled in 1902 and five games were played in 1903. It was a time when basketball was just taking hold, but when it did, the growth was accompanied by the need for a new building.

The final game at the original Assembly Hall was against Rose Poly on January 5, 1917 and it was the fifth-straight victory for IU and it came in dominating fashion, 35-9.

The building attracted former Presidents William Howard Taft and Teddy Roosevelt and also presidential candidate William Jennings Bryan.

The doors to Assembly Hall, which boasted an overall record of 61-43, officially closed in 1938 when it was demolished, but the tradition carried on and only grew stronger.

MEN'S GYMNASIUM

What is now an upstairs recreational gymnasium in the School of Health, Physical Education and Recreation building is the Men's Gymnasium. This facility housed the Indiana Hoosiers from 1916-1928 and was brought into existence amid controversy.

With the original Assembly Hall falling into disrepair, students and faculty alike marched for a new gymnasium for the athletes. Alumni and University personnel also lobbied for its abandonment by the athletic program. The people's wishes were granted in 1914 and with a capacity of 2,000 and a cost of $200,000, the Men's Gymnasium's era began in 1916.

The first game at the gymnasium was on Jan. 19, 1917 against Iowa. The Hoosiers pulled out one of the lowest scoring games in history, 12-7.

The building was the home court of consistent teams coached by the likes of Dana M. Evans and Everett Dean. Dean led his squad to the first two Big Ten Championships in the history of IU Basketball as the head coach. He led the final team to play in the building to the program's first unbeaten home season at Men's Gymnasium (11-0).

As a player, Dean called the Men's Gymnasium home and was named as Indiana University's first All-American in 1921 while playing in that facility.

The team's consistent success led to the growth of the fan base supporting the squad. The capacity of 2,000 was no longer sufficient, so the program had to be moved into another facility.

The time had come because the growth was so substantial.

OLD FIELDHOUSE

Indiana's third home, after outgrowing the Men's Gymnasium, was the Old IU Fieldhouse and it was built on East 7th Street with a price tag of $350,000. The dedication game was on December 13, 1928 when IU defeated Eastern Champion Pennsylvania, 34-26. The facility had a portable hardwood floor and a lighting system consisting of 47 electric lamps suspended from the ceiling. Seven floodlights, three above the floor and two pointing directly at the hoops, made it easier for the players to see during the game. It was not one of the luxurious buildings of today, but head coach Everett Dean and the Hoosiers made due with what they were given.

The Old Fieldhouse was where Indiana Head Coach Everett Dean led the Hoosiers into what is now a well-documented tradition. Dean coached the 1936 team to an undefeated home record (9-0) and a share of the Big Ten Conference crown.

The facility saw six perfect seasons including a 24-game unbeaten home winning streak from 1938-1941. It was the home to the "Hurryin' Hoosiers" under head coach Branch McCracken. It was also the home to McCracken as a player where in 1930, he was named an All-American.

The fieldhouse was the home court for the 1940 NCAA National Champions and it was the place where IU attained its first 20-win season going 20-3 including a 9-0 mark at home. It was also the home to the 1953 NCAA National Champion "Hurricane Hoosiers" that went 20-4 overall and an unprecedented 11-0 in the Fieldhouse. Indiana squads amassed an amazing 234-74 overall record in the Old Fieldhouse era. Besides the two national titles, it was the home of five Big Ten Conference Championships, 20 All-Americans, 17 All-Big Ten First Team selections and three Big Ten Most Valuable Players.

Today the Fieldhouse is named the Ora Wildermuth Intramural Center and it houses one of the most well-known facilities in the country. The HPER building's famed basketball courts are now residing where the tradition of Indiana University Basketball began.

NEW FIELDHOUSE

From 1960-71, Indiana played in what is known as today as Gladstein Fieldhouse, adjacent to Assembly Hall. Gladstein Fieldhouse was the fourth home of the Hoosiers

Although it was only expected to last a few seasons, it lasted 11 years. Over that time, Indiana had only two losing seasons and consistency was the name of the game for the Hoosiers.

The building still exists and it plays host to the Indiana University Indoor Track and Field squad and is utilized during graduation ceremonies. The facility has played host to four Men's Big Ten Indoor Track and Field Championships and three Women's Indoor Big Ten Championships. It is a building that is well-utilized throughout the athletic season.

The Hoosiers, under Branch McCracken for the first five years, went a combined 44-15 in those seasons. In the opening game at the Fieldhouse, Indiana defeated Butler 80-53 in front of 9,236 screaming Hoosier fans.

Players like Walt Bellamy, Tom and Dick Van Arsdale and Jimmy Rayl competed at the Fieldhouse. It was the home arena for five All-Americans, six All-Big Ten First Team selections, three Academic All-Americans and three Academic All-Big Ten selections.

The tradition of Indiana University Basketball was not altered in any way by the temporary move to the Fieldhouse, but the tradition began to escalate when the Hoosiers moved into Assembly Hall.

SIMON SKJODT ASSEMBLY HALL

The 2016-17 season marked the 46th anniversary for the building that is the definition of tradition -- Assembly Hall. The Indiana Hoosiers have won over 83 percent of the games played at Branch McCracken Court. This season also marks the renaming of the building to Simon Skjodt Assembly Hall following a $40 million gift from Cindy Simon Skjodt for renovations to the facility.

The last unbeaten team in NCAA basketball, three NCAA Championships and 11 Big Ten Conference championship-winning teams have graced Branch McCracken Memorial Court. It has been the home to seven perfect seasons including a 56-game winning streak from 1991-1995 and it is the home of the shot that gave Calbert Cheaney the title of Big Ten career scoring leader.

Assembly Hall has played host to the pre- and post-season National Invitational Tournament on six occasions and the 1981 NCAA Midwest Regional Championship won by the Isiah Thomas-led Indiana Hoosiers. The building was also the home arena of the 1984 Olympic gold medal-winning basketball team coached by Bob Knight.

The cavernous structure was completed in 1971 and is an impressive sight. It has 15,200 fully-cushioned, theatre-style seats located on concourse and upper balcony levels and another 2,057 can be seated in the bleachers located on all four sides at court level. The north and south loge areas give disabled fans an opportunity to have a pristine vantage point for Hoosier games.

The building has a suspension roof made up of 4,500 concrete slabs each six feet long, three inches thick and 30 inches wide. Each slab weighs 500 pounds giving the roof a total weight of 1,350 tons or 2,700,000 pounds. The building holds more than 30,000 yards of concrete, six million pounds of reinforcing steel and almost 1.5 million pounds of structural steel.

Assembly Hall has played host to memorable moments such as Kirk Haston's game-winning three-point shot to knock off No. 1 Michigan State, 59-58, which marked the first time in Assembly Hall history that the Hoosiers upset a No. 1 team at the Hall.

Another memorable victory over Michigan State was the backdrop for the Hoosiers' 400th victory in the facility. IU defeated the Spartans, 78-74, in overtime on Feb. 27, 2005.

During the 2005 summer months, a $1.99-million scoreboard-video board was installed in Assembly Hall. The state-of-the-art scoreboard-video board includes four video screens, four video/scoring/statistics screens, one center-hung ProAd ring, five ProTable scorer's table units, four auxiliary portal scoreboards, as well as three-sided shot clocks and a new game timing system.

During the summers of 2010 and 2011, a new roof was installed on the structure. The tradition can be felt the instant you walk into Assembly Hall and if you have been there before you can hear Indiana, Our Indiana and Go IU! Fight! Fight! Fight! resonate off the walls and throughout the building long after you leave.

SIMON SKJODT ASSEMBLY HALL

On October 14, 2016, Indiana University President Michael A. McRobbie presided over the dedication of Simon Skjodt Assembly Hall. The historic and venerable arena was renamed in honor of IU alumna Cindy Simon Skjodt, whose $40 million gift represents the largest gift in IU Athletics history. The renovation preserved the greatest home court advantage in college basketball while adding fan amenities and modern technology to the iconic venue.

COOK HALL

Thanks to a generous donation of $15 million to the "For The Glory of Old IU" campaign by the Cook Group, Indiana Basketball is able to call Cook Hall home for day-to-day operations. The late Bill Cook and his wife, Gayle, have been instrumental in a number of different projects at Indiana University and Cook Hall is no exception.

BIG TEN CONFERENCE

PREMIER ACADEMIC INSTITUTIONS

The Big Ten Academic Alliance is an academic consortium of all 14 Big Ten universities, which is widely considered to be the model for effective and voluntary collaboration among top research universities. Every Big Ten Academic Alliance institution ranks among the top 65 universities in the nation according to the 2017 Academic Ranking of World Universities, including five in the top 25.

The Big Ten leads all conferences with more than 1,800 Academic All-Americans, including 37 honorees during the 2018-19 academic year. Big Ten Academic Alliance schools annually conduct $10 billion in funded research, $5 billion more than any other conference.

A HISTORY OF ATHLETIC SUCCESS

Big Ten schools have won at least five national championships in 24 of the last 25 years including an average of seven per year over the last 13 years. Since the 2008-09 academic year, current Big Ten institutions have claimed 76 team national championships in 21 different sports.

BROAD-BASED PROGRAMMING

The Big Ten will administer over $200 million in direct financial support to more than 9,800 students competing in intercollegiate athletics for more than 11,000 participation opportunities on more than 350 teams in 42 different sports.

The Big Ten sponsors 28 official conference sports, 14 for men and 14 for women, including the addition of men's ice hockey and men's and women's lacrosse in this decade.

The Big Ten leads the nation in total students competing in intercollegiate athletics and participation opportunities, and sponsors more official sports than all conferences except the Ivy League.

Almost 1,400 Big Ten competitors have participated in the Olympics, winning more than 600 medals, including nearly 300 gold. In the 2016 and 2018 Olympic Games, more than 200 representatives from Big Ten institutions including current or former students and coaches were members of Olympic teams. Big Ten Olympians collected more than 50 medals in the most recent games in Rio and PyeongChang.

PASSIONATE FOLLOWING

The Big Ten leads all conferences with 5.7 million alumni and nearly 580,000 students. Each year more than 11 million patrons attend Big Ten home contests, as the conference has led the nation in attendance for men's basketball, ice hockey, volleyball and wrestling.

LEADERS IN INNOVATION

Took part in the nation's first bowl game, winning the 1902 Rose Bowl Game, and signed an exclusive contract with the Tournament of Roses in 1946, making it the first bowl with permanent conference affiliations. Awarded the first Big Ten Medal of Honor in 1915, honoring outstanding seniors who demonstrated excellence in academics and athletics.

Formed the Big Ten Advisory Commission in 1972, enlisting former students that competed in conference athletics to serve as liaisons to the NCAA's Diversity and Inclusion Department, the Big Ten Student-Athlete Advisory Commission and other organizations. Became the first conference to voluntarily adopt male and female participation goals after launching its Gender Equity Action Plan in 1992.

Implemented the first collegiate football system of instant replay in 2004, which the NCAA approved for use among all conferences in 2006. Launched the Big Ten Network (BTN) in 2007, the first national conference-owned television network. Began partnering with the Ivy League to study the effects of head injuries in sports in 2012.

Accepted Johns Hopkins University as the conference's first sport affiliate members in men's and women's lacrosse in 2013 and 2015, respectively, and added Notre Dame as a sport affiliate member in men's ice hockey in 2017.

EXTENSIVE TELEVISION EXPOSURE

Through the Big Ten's current media agreements with BTN, ABC/ESPN, CBS and FOX, more than 2,000 Big Ten events are produced and distributed nationally and globally on an annual basis.

BTN is in almost 60 million homes across the United States and Canada, and is also available internationally via the Fox Sports App, delivering live and on-demand programming to computers, smartphones and tablets. BTN Plus streams hundreds of additional events each season.

COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT

For more than 30 years, through the Big Ten's SCORE (Success Comes Out of Reading Everyday) program, the conference has partnered with Chicago elementary schools to improve reading performance.

Surrounding the Big Ten Football Championship Game and Basketball Tournaments, the conference has held numerous community initiatives, partnered with the College Football Playoff Foundation and other events such as the Big Ten Career Expo, Saturday of Service and Youth Football Clinics. In addition, the Big Ten has hosted a downtown 5K, collaborated with a local breast cancer awareness group and provided unique event experiences for military veterans.

MICHAEL A. McROBBIE - Indiana University's 18th President

Michael A. McRobbie became the 18th president of Indiana University on July 1, 2007. He joined IU in 1997 as the university's first vice president for information technology and chief information officer. He was appointed vice president for research in 2003. In 2006, he was named interim provost and vice president for academic affairs for the Australian National University in 1979 and has honorary doctorates from the University of Queensland (2007); Sung Kyun Kwan University in Korea (2008); the Australian National University (2010); the South East European University in Macedonia (2011), which IU helped found; and Griffith University in Australia (2014). He was honored by the Australian National University as Alumnus of the Year in 2015.

He was elected a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences in 2012 and is an honorary fellow of the Australian Academy of Humanities. He was appointed a member of the Council on Foreign Relations in 2016. He is a two-time recipient of the Sagamore of the Wabash, one of the highest honors the governor of Indiana can bestow on a private individual. He is also an Officer of the Order of Australia, Australia's national honors system.

IU's Bloomington campus.

Under President McRobbie's leadership, IU has seen:

- A major expansion in the size, quality, and diversity of its student body;
- the largest academic restructuring in its history during which 10 new schools have been established;
- A reinvigoration of its global engagement that support the university's international academic and educational programs;
- The construction or renovation of more than 100 major new facilities across all campuses, including the completion of the Master Plan for IU Bloomington's central athletics campus, which consolidates all of IU's major athletic facilities into one neighborhood; and
- The launch of the largest fundraising campaign in IU's history and one of the largest ever by a public university—"For All: The Indiana University Bicentennial Campaign," which had a goal of raising $3 billion by June 2020.

McRobbie also oversaw the development of The Bicentennial Strategic Plan for Indiana University, a comprehensive set of strategic initiatives that cover all IU's campuses and are to be implemented by the Bicentennial.

McRobbie is one of the longest serving presidents of a major public university in the United States. He serves as chair of the board of directors of the Association of American Universities, founded in 1900, whose members are the 60 leading research universities in the U.S. and two in Canada. He is a member of the Big Ten Council of Presidents and Chancellors, and was its chair from 2010 to 2012. He recently chaired the executive search committee that selected Kevin Warren as the sixth commissioner of the Big Ten Conference.

McRobbie also serves as vice chair of the board of directors of the Indiana University Health system—one of the largest and most highly regarded hospital systems in the U.S.—and on the executive committee of the board of the OneAmerica insurance company, based in Indianapolis.

He served as co-chair of the National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine's Committee on the Future of Voting. He is a former chair of the Board of Trustees of Internet2, and the former chair of the board of directors of the Digital Preservation Network.

A native of Australia, McRobbie received a Ph.D. from

He has received the Bicentenary Medal of the University of Warsaw in Poland, the Prince Naradhip Bongsprabandha Plaque for services to international education from the National Institute for Development Administration in Thailand, and the International Citizen of the Year Award from the International Center for outstanding contributions to the globalization of Indiana.

McRobbie is also a recipient of the Anti-Defamation League's "Man of Achievement Award," which recognizes individuals who have demonstrated exceptional commitment to community, justice, and equal opportunity.

ATHLETICS ADMINISTRATION

SCOTT DOLSON - Vice President and Director of Intercollegiate Athletics

Longtime IU Athletics administrator and IU alumnus Scott Dolson began his tenure as IU's Director of Intercollegiate Athletics July 1, 2020. A native of Michigan City, Ind., Dolson spent the previous 11 years as the department's Deputy Director of Athletics and chief operating officer, where he played an integral role in helping IU Athletics to record-setting successes on the field and off.

"Given his background and experience in helping to oversee the recent growth and development of nearly every major area of IU's large athletics operation, Scott is extremely well-positioned to lead our intercollegiate athletics program and further its longstanding and storied traditions of excellence as well as build on Fred Glass' outstanding achievements of the last 10 years," IU President Michael A. McRobbie said. "For more than two decades at IU, he has demonstrated an unwavering commitment to ensuring that our student athletes achieve success both on and off the field, compete within the rules and represent IU with passion, integrity and distinction.

"Scott also fully understands that our athletics program must continue to be integrated into the university in all ways. He knows that our student athletes are, first and foremost, students, who are here to develop their athletics prowess while also earning a world-class education that will have an enormous impact on the rest of their lives."

In his previous role as Deputy Director of Athletics, he was instrumental in helping IU Athletics establish records for both athletic and academic success, including graduating students at unprecedented rates; make historic investments in facilities; deliver unprecedented fundraising dollars; and establish nationally recognized programs and policies focused on holistic student development and welfare.

Dolson helped oversee strategic planning of all facility projects and renovations, ensuring the successful completion of the university's Bicentennial Facilities

Master Plan for IU Athletics, which includes over $150 million in facility construction and renovations. In recent years, these projects have included the North End Zone Student-Athlete Development Center, the Henke Hall of Champions, the D. Ames Shuel Academic Center, Bart Kaufman Field, the Andy Mohr Softball Field, the Cook Hall basketball practice facility, the renovated Simon Skjodt Assembly Hall, the enclosure of the South End Zone of Memorial Stadium, which is home to the Excellence Academy, and Wilkinson Hall, IU's new home for its volleyball and wrestling teams. These projects also include the new IU championship golf course, The Pfau Course at Indiana University, and the soon-to-be-completed renovations to Armstrong Stadium, home to IU's men's soccer team, winners of eight NCAA championships.

Under Dolson's stewardship, the athletics department renegotiated a new, 10-year multimedia rights agreement with Learfield Sports, and it has dramatically increased student and general attendance at both football and men's basketball games. Recent years have seen IU football achieve record attendance and increase public season ticket sales. In men's basketball, IU continues to sell more student season tickets than any other program in the country and regularly ranks among the nation's leaders in attendance.

In addition to his role as deputy director of intercollegiate athletics, Dolson maintained his leadership as the fourth director of the Varsity Club. As director, he managed the athletic department's overall fundraising program for scholarships, annual giving, endowments and athletic facilities.

The Michigan City, Indiana, native graduated from IU with a bachelor's degree in management from the Paul H. O'Neill School of Public and Environmental Affairs. While doing his undergraduate work, Dolson was a student manager for the IU men's basketball team for four seasons, serving as the program's head manager in 1988. Following graduation in 1988, he worked for Tim Knight Enterprises before joining the joining the Varsity Club staff in December 1989.

Dolson and his wife, Heidi, who works as a Special Events Manager at the IU Alumni Association, have five children: Luke, Sam and Zach Wisen, and Kristen and Nick Dolson.

TELEVISION COVERAGE

Over the last few years, the Big Ten has reached a series of milestone media agreements to provide the conference with its greatest television exposure ever. In the summer of 2017, the conference agreed to a new media rights deal that will provide the most robust men's basketball over-the-air network package ever, with as many as 20 games appearing on FOX and CBS.

Between football and men's basketball, the Big Ten will have events on three of four legacy networks (ABC, CBS and FOX). Additionally, FOX Sports and ESPN have also committed to help promote the conference with co-branded logos on broadcasts on the ABC/ESPN networks and the FOX Sports family of networks.

CBS

CBS returns as men's basketball network television partner to extend relationship that began in 1994.

CBS will continue to have at least 10 regular season men's basketball games, and the semifinals and championship game of the men's basketball tournament, which have been broadcast on the network since the event's inception in 1998. The network will feature Big Ten contests in regular Sunday afternoon windows and share priority selections for regular season contests with ESPN and FOX.

ESPN

The new agreements build on the conference's longest television partnership that began in 1979 with ESPN and 1966 with ABC. ESPN and ABC will share priority selections on both football (with FOX) and men's basketball (with CBS and FOX).

ESPN will feature 38 men's basketball games annually and will continue to feature women's basketball and a robust package of 30 Olympic sports events annually. All intra-conference football and the vast majority of intra-conference men's basketball games will appear on ABC, ESPN or ESPN2.

BIG TEN NETWORK

In June 2007, the Big Ten announced that the Big Ten Network would become the first national network to commit to "event equality" for men's and women's sports on all network-controlled media within the first three years of launch. This dedication to "event equality" highlights the Big Ten's ongoing dedication to gender equity, which is aligned with the commitment of conference institutions to provide fairness for all female student-athletes.

The network is led by President Mark Silverman, a former Disney executive who came to the network after serving as the general manager and senior vice president of ABC Cable Networks Group since April of 2004, managing the company's equity in such channels as Lifetime Television, A&E Network and the History Channel, each of which recorded their best financial performance in 2005. Silverman was also responsible for developing and launching new cable channels, shows and other key initiatives.

The new agreement signed in 2017 extended the joint venture with FOX Sports through 2032. The programming on the Big Ten Network (linear and digital platforms) includes over 1,600 events per year and will expand its coverage of the men's basketball tournament to 10 games.

Located in the historic Montgomery Ward building in Chicago, the Big Ten Network is the first national television network to call the largest city in the Midwest its home. The original section of the building was designated as a historic landmark in 2000 for its significant role in American retail history. The space includes two studios and three control rooms as well as a 20,000 square-foot office space.

In addition to airing more coverage of Big Ten sports than ever before, the Big Ten Network also provides numerous benefits to communities around the Big Ten. Those include increased exposure for women's sports, providing positive role models for girls; a greater economic impact to the communities from added sporting event production, with the potential to generate higher attendance; and greater national exposure for the excellence that surrounds the academic endeavors of Big Ten universities, some of the most highly regarded in the nation. Also, an internship program at each of the 14 universities will offer students training for careers in sports, television and entertainment.

The Big Ten Network is a joint venture between subsidiaries of the Big Ten Conference and Fox Cable Networks. For more information regarding the Big Ten Network, visit www.BigTenNetwork.com.

FOX SPORTS

The agreement in 2017 ushered in a new phase in the conference's relationship with FOX Sports, which began 10 years ago with the joint venture to establish BTN and was enhanced six years ago with the establishment of our Football Championship Game.

Starting 2017, FOX Sports will televise 24-27 regular season football games and will continue to broadcast the Football Championship Game.

As it relates to men's basketball, the network will cover 39-47 men's basketball games and share priority selections on men's basketball (with ESPN/ABC and CBS).

COMPLIANCE

Indiana University is extremely proud of the performance of its athletics teams both in competition and in the classroom. While our student-athletes are extremely talented, they would not reach their full potential without the encouragement and support that Hoosier fans bring to every event. We thank you for your consistent display of commitment and support for our IU student-athletes, coaches, and staff.

As a member institution of the NCAA, Indiana University is responsible for exercising institutional control over its intercollegiate athletics programs. Our efforts to exercise institutional control include educating boosters and fans of NCAA rules and regulations. Below you will find important definitions and information regarding restrictions that are in place for both boosters and fans. Our goal in providing this information is to protect the eligibility of both prospective and enrolled student-athletes.

A booster is defined as any individual or organization who:

- Attended Indiana University;
- Works at Indiana University;
- Donates Money to Indiana University;
- Purchases Indiana University athletics tickets; or
- Is a fan of Indiana University.

Please note that booster status, once triggered, remains with an individual or organization indefinitely. NCAA legislation prohibits boosters from engaging in certain activities related to both prospective and enrolled student-athletes. Boosters are prohibited from engaging in the following activities:

- Boosters may not contact prospective student-athletes, their relatives, legal guardians, teachers, or coaches for the purpose of recruitment. This includes but is not limited to:
 - oWritten communication (including emails), telephone calls, and interaction via all social media outlets (e.g. Facebook, Twitter, Instagram).
- Boosters may not make special arrangements or provide any benefits to prospective or enrolled student-athletes, their family or friends.

If there is a prospective student-athlete that you would like to see wearing the cream and crimson in the future, please recommend that particular individual to the Indiana University Department of Athletics. In addition to the above restrictions placed on boosters, all fans should be aware of the additional restrictions related to extra benefits and publicizing recruitment.

An extra benefit is defined as a benefit provided to enrolled student-athletes, their family or friends that is based on their status as a student-athlete. Examples of extra benefits include, but are not limited to, transportation, lodging, meals, gifts, co-signing loans, etc. Providing an extra benefit to an enrolled student-athlete will always jeopardize his or her eligibility, and could possibly result in withholding from competition and repayment of the benefit. Further, all individuals, boosters and fans alike, must refrain from using a student-athlete's name, image, or likeness to promote a business, product or service.

Finally, NCAA rules prohibit any member of the IU athletics staff from commenting publicly about any prospective student-athlete being recruited by our institution, other than to confirm the prospect's recruitment. IU is prohibited from publicizing recruiting visits made to our campus by prospects, or otherwise making those prospects available for interviews or media comments while they are meeting with our coaches and touring campus. Only after a prospective student-athlete makes an official commitment to IU by signing a National Letter of Intent (NLI) or an offer of athletics aid, may the university comment publicly on the recruitment. Publicity includes verbal comments, social media posts, or any other form of public comment.

The Indiana University Department of Athletics would like to thank you for supporting our student-athletes. Much of our success is due to you, our friends and fans. If you have any questions about these or other NCAA rules, please contact a member of our compliance staff (iucomply@indiana.edu) or visit our website at: www.iuhoosiers.com/compliance. Thank you for helping Indiana University play by the rules!

IU RADIO NETWORK

IU RADIO NETWORK

Indiana University's basketball program receives some of the most extensive media coverage in the country. On Dec. 31, 2018, Learfield Communications entered yet a new phase as it was announced that the proposed merger of Learfield and IMG College was completed. The new company – now operating as Learfield IMG College – reflects the strengths of both companies which respectively shared deep roots in the collegiate athletics landscape.

DON FISCHER

This marks the 49th year that Don Fischer has been the radio play-by-play "voice" of Indiana University football and men's basketball games. He shares the second-longest football radio tenure in the nation. The past 34 years, Fischer has worked as an independent contractor and is currently serving the Indiana University Radio Network owned by Learfield IMG College out of Plano, Texas.

In addition to broadcasting the games, Fischer hosts the weekly coaches radio talk shows for both the football and men's basketball programs. Fischer also offers stations a weekly talk show about IU football and basketball that airs in several markets around the state during the school year.

Fischer does freelance sportscasting, which included handling for 23 years the pre-season television play-by-play for the NFL's Indianapolis Colts (1995-2017).

During his 48 years with IU, Fischer has been named Indiana Sportscaster of the Year 32 times by two different organizations. The National Sportscasters and Sportswriters Association has awarded him 27 times, while the Indiana Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association has named him its honoree four times.

He received the inaugural Woody Durham College Voice Award from the National Sports Media Association, the University of North Carolina and Learfield Sports in June of 2018.

In October of 2010, Fischer was one of eight inductees into the Indiana Broadcast Pioneers Richard M. Fairbanks Hall of Fame. The Indiana Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association (ISSA) inducted Fischer into the ISSA Hall of Fame in 2004.

He has won several awards for best play-by-play performance, and he has been honored by Indiana University with the J.W. Bill Orwig Medal, that goes to non-alumni for distinguished service to the University.

Fischer also has been named an Honorary "I" Man. In addition, the City of Indianapolis, and the State of Indiana have each honored Fischer with a special "Recognition Day" for his service and abilities as the play-by-play broadcaster for IU.

He has broadcast over 1,900 Indiana University games - a total that includes 10 bowl games, four NCAA basketball championship games and two N.I.T. championship games.

From 1973 through 1987, he worked for ABC Radio, Canada's CBC and several additional major market radio stations, including WIRE in Indianapolis, as their source for reports during the month of May coverage of the Indianapolis 500. During that period, Fischer also served WIRE and Network Indiana, a statewide news network, as their sports director.

A native of Rochelle, Ill., Fischer has been in the radio business for 54 years. His previous broadcast experience includes stops in Butte, Mont.; Ottawa, Ill.; Springfield, Ill.; and Terre Haute, Ind.

Fischer has four sons and 12 grandchildren. Don and his wife, Susy, reside in Greenwood, Ind.
